HISICON - GUJ 2018

Welcome All!

A warm welcome to all delegates at the State conference of Hospital infection society-India (HIS-I) organized by Department of Microbiology, The Gujarat Cancer and Research Institute, Ahmedabad on 7th and 8th December 2018.

As for now, the Healthcare Associated Infections (HAI) or infections arising as a result of admission and treatment in a hospital are one of the major causes of morbidity and mortality in hospitalized patients. The hazard extends to the staff working in hospitals and also into the community at large. This has become more important in today's changing environment, dealing with the threats of newly emerging pathogens and the widespread dissemination of old pathogens. Each year more is learnt about hospital infection control as a science, yet the human input is never as important as now to keep pace with the challenges of modern medicine and sophisticated therapeutic modalities many of which cause a significant increase in patient population susceptible to hospital infection.

The Prevention, Control and Treatment of such infection is a concern of all health care professionals working in a hospital including Microbiologists, Clinical Specialists from various disciplines of Medicine, Surgery and Gynaec, Hospital Administration, Nursing Staff and Nursing Administrators, CSSD Managers and Staff.

About Association: The Hospital Infection Society – India (HIS-I) is an Association of medical professionals with a special interest in the prevention and control of hospital infection. It is registered with Registrar of Societies at Delhi. Founded in 1991, the society presently has more than 1000 members. The Hospital Infection Society - India, Gujarat Chapter was installed by Late Dr. Ajita Mehta from P. D. Hinduja Hospital, Mumbai who was the then President of HISI-I in 2004-05.

Vision: Every Indian Healthcare Unit has a functional infection control and prevention programme

Mission Statement: Hospital Infection Society India (HIS-I) provides the essential tools, education materials & communication that unite HIS-I members and foster development of Hospital Infection Control programmes based on evidence based medicine.

Objectives: Advance medical knowledge and disseminate information on the subject of Hospital Infections and their prevention. Provide a common platform for people active in the field of hospital infections, viz. Microbiologists, Administrators, Clinicians, Nursing Staff etc. Provide individuals and institutions with information and assistance to form hospital Infection control programs and similar activities. Gather and disseminate information about Hospital Infections and their prevention in both technical and practical aspects. Hold training courses and educational symposia, seminars on all aspects of Hospital Infections. Form liaison with similar associations at National and International levels. Do all such things as are incidental or conducive to the attainment of the above objectives, or any one of them.

We invite all the professionals to attend the conference organized by Department of Microbiology, The Gujarat Cancer & research Institute, New Civil Hospital Campus, Asarwa, Ahmedabad and enjoy the scientific feast and learn more about infection control in health care facilities.
